

I had the call block on my old address. I recently divorced and applied for it at my new address. I had to turn my ringer off due to the numerous calls. I left my sons home alone for a couple hours to run some errands and turned the ringer back on. when I got back they complained of the number of phone calls. I suuport the Indiana law. I'd remove the exceptions and make it stronger.